Church People Are Anxious to Recover Insurance Money.

Flint, Oct. 15.—Insurance to the amount of $20,000 was carried on the Court Street M. E. church, valued at $25,000, which was destroyed by fire some time ago. The risk was placed in the hands of several companies, who refuse to pay their share, claiming that an oil stove in the basement started the fire. The insurance is being distributed by the Union Insurance company in order to make a final adjustment of the matter.

"You're Welcome."
THE GRAND RAPIDS HERALD has been giving it a good "write up." It has become the custom of wide-awake citizens to give to this attention. In the present instance the work has been well done. Nothing of importance has been passed unnoticed. Lumber, salt, shingles, woodens, etc., of all kinds, clothing, machinery, baskets, brooms, flour, fruit, brick, cigars, etc., all come in for proper attention. This city is fast becoming noted for its manufacturing enterprises, and the croakers have died out—Ludington Record.

Two other children were also ill from the same cause, but prompt medical attendance saved their lives.

DEATH ONLY IN SEMBLANCE.
Many People Have Been Prepared for Death in France While Still Alive.
A Paris physician is the authority for the statement that at least forty persons are annually prepared for burial in France while still alive, and he adds that he includes only cases where the dead were fortunate enough to awaken before interment. Assuming the number actually buried alive to be equal to those who awoke from their somnolence in time to avert such a fearful doom, it will be perceived that were the American system of hasty embalming in vogue there the undertakers would "die"—another name for murder—eighty persons every year in that one country.

With this in mind, together with an old undertaker's statement that one-half of the men in the business have buried at least one person while in a "death trance," it is not illogical to conclude that there are a number of "business" undertakers who make it anything but attractive to those who follow it. Of course, they keep their thoughts and fancies from becoming morbid. Although they work among shrouds and worms and tombs and epitaphs they do not permit themselves to become lost in reveries of death or life beyond the grave, and so this is one of the facts that they are enabled to stay in the business.

CLOSE OBSERVERS OF NATURE.

Small, Wily Fellows Are the Most Successful Beast Tamers.

The most successful beast tamers are generally small, wily fellows, with plenty of nerve and a good stock of tricks and devices, derived from a close study of wild animals. In the latter respect savages, with their outdoor mode of life, have a considerable advantage over their civilized rivals, says a writer in the San Francisco Chronicle. In the Indian Andes the naturalist Tschudi made the acquaintance of a crocodile farmer who confessed that he had experimented for several years before he succeeded in capturing a live alligator. He had imitated the traps of the Indians, their method of fixing them in the sand of the river banks, their prevention in obliterating the traces of their foot-prints, but all in vain. It was an Indian who revealed the secret—namely, that the alligator select their drinking places where there is an anthill close

In the current of the river, perhaps for the same reason that cows prefer brook to pond and a running spring to a sluggish creek. The manuring of the stream seemed to suggest the idea of purer and cooler water, and where the current was slow the Indians contrived to produce a ripple by an artificial obstruction.

FLOWERS BY TELEGRAPH.

A New Branch of the Florist's Business—Kisses Cheap at Gibraltar.

There is a sign over the door of a florist in New York which says: "Flowers by Telegraph to All Parts of the World." This sign seems sufficiently extraordinary to warrant inquiry into its exact meaning. The mental eye saw baskets of roses whirling across the country, so the owner of the flower store was interviewed by a World writer upon the subject, and he said: "Yes, flowers by telegraph sounds strange, but it is nevertheless quite possible, and done in a perfectly simple way. Here is how it is managed: We have arranged with one of the leading florists in every city in this country and Europe, so that when any of our customers come, write or telegraph to us and tell us to send flowers to some friend in another city we at once telegraph the order to our correspondent and have it filled immediately. We charge the cost of telegraphing or cabling to our customer. The scheme has only just been started, but its working has surprised and delighted both ourselves and our customers. My partner is in Europe now establishing new stations, and we hope to have a complete belt around the world soon."

"An amusing incident happened in Gibraltar. A young woman had sailed from New York on an Italian steamer and an admirer wanted a bunch of roses sent to the ship when she arrived off Gibraltar. Ten dollars was the amount he invested. I telegraphed my correspondent to go out in the boat with the flowers and have them handed over the side of the ship. Now it seems that flowers are very abundant in Gibraltar, and the florist had never received so large an order before. I forget how many dozen roses were secured, but they almost filled the small rowboat, and the effect was as if a flower bed were floating out from the rock. The boat attracted great attention from the ship, and all the passengers flocked to the side to watch the flowers approach. Of course there was great curiosity to know whom all this floral display was for, and when the name of Miss Evans, I believe that was the young lady's name, was called out, she became uncomfortably conspicuous. Devotion represented by a boat load of flowers must be that of something more than friendship. The young lady was an object of interest the rest of the voyage."

EXTRACTION OF PERFUMES.

The Six Methods by Which the Sweet

Six methods of extracting perfumes are known, says the Science Monthly. The first is expression by means of a special press, which is applicable without too great loss to fruit skins rich in essential oils, such as orange and citron peel, previously grated. Another method is that of distillation, which consists of heating flowers with water in a boiler. The essential oil is volatilized and is condensed with the vapor of water in a worm and Florentine receiver. The water usually goes to the bottom and the oil floats. The oils of neroli, rose, patchouli, geranium, lavender, caraway, etc., are obtained in this way. The process is not applicable to the delicate perfumes of the mignonette and the violet, and for them recourse is had to maceration of the flowers in animal fat or mineral oils, which have the property of absorbing odorous substances, and are then washed in alcohol. The flowers are usually heated in the fat or the oil for a variable number of hours. For perfumes which cannot endure a high temperature the petals are placed between frames of glass coated with fat. This is the process of enfleurage. The pneumatic process, which consists in causing a current of perfumed air or carbonic acid to be absorbed by coatings of lard on glass plates, appears not to have given satisfactory results. Another process consists in dissolving perfumes in very volatile liquids, like sulphur of carbon, chloroform, naphtha, ether or chloride of methyl, and volatilizing the solvents, which can be done at a low temperature in a vacuum. The last method has given very satisfactory results in the extreme delicacy and great accuracy of its returns.

Eden's Hounds.

In the early days of Illinois a gentleman prospecting through the country found himself at nightfall near a little two-story log cabin. Having been granted the privilege of staying all night, he was shown to the attic, where he found a couple of hounds, who, as his host explained, always slept there. As he was dozing off, a mighty snore, whereupon the two hounds gazed intently at each other a moment and then with one accord bolted out of the single window the room contained. The hostess, hearing the racket, appeared above and inquired the cause. "Why," said the guest, "I sneezed, and the hounds bolted at each other a moment and then flew out the window."

A SENSATION.

A Nine Days' Wonder in a Small Town.

Facts and Details From Our Own Correspondent.

Surprised Many But Does Not Surprise Us.

Mansfield, O., is not a large place, but it has certainly experienced a great sensation. The people are not done talking about it yet, and indeed it will furnish the subject for conversation for a long time to come, as well as food for thought.

Our correspondent, C. C. Coulter, who is a prominent and influential citizen of Mansfield and agent of the Rockford (Ill.) Silver Plate company, has furnished us with the facts and details, which we are positive will prove most interesting to our readers.

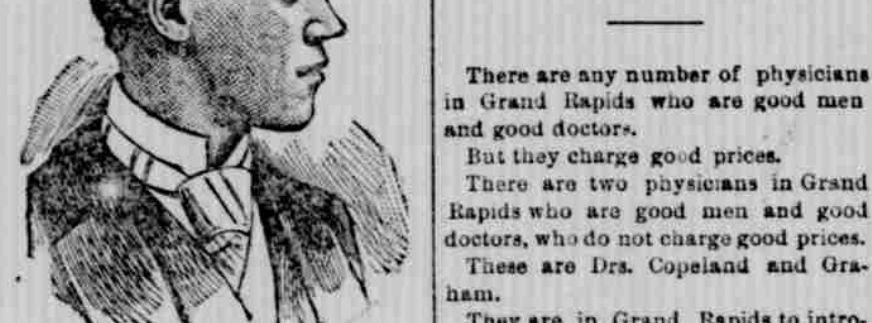

"I have a brother, Harry E. Coulter, 21 years of age," writes Mr. Coulter, "who had never done a day's work in his life; never ran ten rods in his life—indeed, could not even walk fast."

"Heart disease was his trouble. Last fall he got the Grip and went down, down, down."

"Two of our best physicians treated him. His tongue was coated badly, had backache, urine high-colored, brick dust sediment—worst I ever saw."

"His stomach was almost as hard as a board, in fact, we gave up all hopes of his life."

"He quit the doctors and commenced using Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and nothing else, and the third day was better. He is now better than he ever was in his life, can run and do violent exercise and not suffer in the least."

HARRY E. COULTER.

"He says he never felt better in his life; in fact, this wonderful medicine, he tells me, saved his life."

"He coaxed me to take this remedy, and I was troubled something as he had been, only my heart is all right. I had been doctoring since last fall to clear up my system, but without beneficial results. I have now only used two bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and feel like a new man. In fact, I am well, and I write this because I feel so grateful to the remedy for saving my brother's life and my health."

"This is the greatest medicine I ever heard of, and I am sure that if you knew my brother's condition before he commenced the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy the cure would much surprise you. We do not equal to health is remarkable upon as almost a miracle in Mansfield, where, perhaps, the marvelous virtues of this remedy were until now not known, but the cure does not surprise us in the least, for it is something which is taking place constantly in our vicinity, no day, scarcely an hour, in fact, passing in which we do not learn of it curing some one who has been suffering from nervous weakness, blood disorder, kidney or liver complaints, insomnia, malaria or stomach trouble. It is a fact that this wonderful medicine cures the sick, and it is perfectly harmless to use, being purely vegetable. Druggists keep it for $1."

It is the discovery and prescription of Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th street, New York, the famous specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, who has the largest practice among the sick of any physician in the United States, and who can be consulted free personally or by letter.

Kalamazoo indignantly denies the statement that many applications for admission to the state insane asylum are refused. Celery and parsley never did combine.

TORTURING ECZEMA

Editor Iowa Plain Dealer Cured of Insufferable Itching and Pain by the Cuticura Remedies.

No Less Than Five Physicians Consulted. Their Combined Wisdom Followed Without Benefit.

I am sixty years old. In August, 1920, was troubled with the peculiar skin disease to which people of my age are subject, known among medical men as eczema. Its first appearance was near the neck, and it rapidly spread to the face, neck, shoulders and arms. It was nearly as severe as from the trouble endured among the hips, shoulders and the entire length of the arms, legs and arms gradually swollen with a itching, burning pain, without cessation. Although the best medical advice available was rendered, no less than five physicians of the place being consulted and the prescriptions being the result of their combined wisdom, the disease, though apparently checked, would recur in a few days as bad as ever, during its progress my weight fell away about twenty five pounds. As an experiment I began the use of Cuticura, following the simple and plain directions on the Cuticura box, and in four weeks found myself well, with skin soft and natural in color, the itching and pain entirely cured.

A New Era in Local Medical Practice.

You Don't Need to Be Rich to Have a Specialist Treat You.

Let the High-Priced Doctors Go—Let the Druggists Go—Look to Your Purses and Get the Best Medical Service at the Least Cost.

There are no number of physicians in Grand Rapids who are good men and good doctors.

But they charge good prices. There are two physicians in Grand Rapids who are good men and good doctors, who do not charge good prices.

These are Drs. Copeland and Graham.

They are in Grand Rapids to introduce low fees for medical treatment.

We shall not say anything more of their ability than to point to the testimonials given them by people here whom they have treated and to refer to their credentials printed in the next column.

Dollars are hard to get and hard to keep. This is what Drs. Copeland and Graham wish to say:

If you are in need of medical attention and want to save your dollars, go to them. It is not right that you should neglect yourself. It is not right that you should pay big fees to doctors. Drs. Copeland and Graham tell you frankly what they will charge you, that is

FIVE DOLLARS A MONTH.

Make your doctors do the same if you go to them. Business is business. It's the same in medicine as in anything else. Why shouldn't it be? This fee of $5 a month is for ALL DISEASES, no matter what they may be, and medicines are supplied FREE.

Now, that's enough for any sensible person to be satisfied of. As far as professional standing and ability go, Drs. Copeland and Graham are a long comparison and will compete with anyone in this city in a matter of downright skill and ability.

Here's the way a dollar looks during the first month of treatment:

PARODIES ON OLD PROVERBS.

A Clever English Writer Gives His Epigrammatic Views on Marriage.

A correspondence has been opened in the pages of the Daily Telegraph on the vexed question of marriage in general, and of English wives in particular, says "The Linkman" in London Truth.

As a bachelor my experience of wives—in the plural—is extensive, and it is the more desirable, therefore, that I should contribute my share towards the discussion. I have tried to condense the views which I hold upon this subject, and the more important of those will be found in the following distorted parodies of Pail Mail:

Marriage is believing.
Two's matrimony and three's divorce.
Divorce is the mother-in-law of invention.

A little matrimony goes a long way. Infidelity begins at home.
Put not all your lovers in one basket.
Everything has an end—marriage has two.

To marry is human, to divorce is divine.
Set a wife to catch a wife.
A "smart" lover covers a multitude of sins.

Matrimony breeds contempt.
A lover in time saves nine.
You must go to the divorce court to hear what noise at your home.

When the lover preaches beware of your wife.
When a woman falls every man calls.
Wives of a feather flock together.
Every "smart" woman has her day in the box.

Home rule often injures peace with honor.
Where there's a wife there's a way to the court.
A divorcing man will catch at a straw. It is easy to marry down hill.
Wife, life and strife rhyme together, but there is very little reason in divorce.

What matrimony conceals divorce reveals.
There are none so wicked as those that will not marry.
Fine friends make fast wives.
Some men marry because they are old, some because they are busy, others because they have nothing to do. There is but one valid excuse for marrying—because you want to.

PERTINENT POINTS!

By SPRING & COMPANY.

The swarming of the autumn stock makes news faster than our news gatherer can digest and purvey it.

Each day has its own story. We are sure that of all the days in the years that we have been making store history, the days now passing have the most abundant interest.

A Repertoire of Laces.

These goods are now absorbing much of the store interest. The department is resplendent with the new and the charming novelties from all over the world. Does your fashion journal tell of new and rare fancies in dress and other adornments? They may seem far away to your mind, but we assure you they can be found here in Grand Rapids and at our store.

It's our mission to know of all that's out, and to provide them for our patrons.

Great Snow Storms

In the west have blockaded miles of railroads, mountains of snow has fallen and lives have perished, though it's but October. Who knows how soon the storm will reach us? "Old Prob" says, "A cold winter this year."

Flannel Blankets and Comfortables.

They are the first thing the careful housewife places in the category of winter needs. With them no cold feet to warm; no shivering extremities.

We'll help you out; purchase this week.

Look at those beautiful sanitary gray blankets, large size, at $5 a pair. They are luxury itself. Nothing nicer than a pair of fleecy, warm blankets.

Comfortables are also Suggested.

We can show you a good value at 45c, and you can jump by quarters up to the finest silk-down quilt at $25. Elaborate designs in imitation China silk and all popular coverings at exceptionally modest prices.

A Word of Warning

The examples applies to all branches of the Dry Goods business.

A few makers produce the real novelties and first qualities. They limit sales to the largest and best firms, generally one in any city. A horde of imitators try to follow, but new things are so carefully guarded that the counterfeiter cannot see them until they reach the retail market. This makes the following very distant.

The imitation usually has some concealed vice.

Often the fraud is a travesty. This explains why prices vary on goods of similar appearance.

Our patrons are protected from this fraud, for we purchase only from the original makers, and our prices are always as low as the real goods will permit.

Look out for the merchant who offers to throw off to per cent to every little society or flock. If his goods are marked right in the first place, he cannot afford it. Custom has established this rule with dressmakers only, and fortunate is the merchant who prints "wholesale and retail" upon his letter heads. Do not be deceived when you want true worth and an honest return for every penny, come to the store of

SPRING & COMPANY

In the 25c goods we have an exceedingly elegant assortment, including a large variety of patterns.

At our Handkerchief counter a large quantity of pure linen handkerchiefs will be offered and every thread will be found as represented.
